

Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznan

Faculty of Philosophy 2020/2021

Syllabus

Module aim

The aim of the module is to analyze different forms of embodiment power and politics in artefacts, objects, infrastructures. The aim of the module is to analyze different forms of embodiment of power and politics in artefacts, objects, infrastructures. The classes will be based on texts from philosophy of technology, philosophy of power and politics, science technology studies, anthropology and history. On the one hand, we will analyze how materiality, objects can become political (as presented in Winner Langdon's classic text "Do Artifacts Have Politics?"), and on the other hand, we will analyze how we can establish politics by means of "materiality politics". The subject will be conducted in a "problem oriented" way, i.e. to matters of concern will set the agenda.

Information

Year: 2020/2021

Semester: Summer

Hours: 30

Language: english

Building:

Room:

Tips:

Topic: Objects of power. Materiality of politics and politics of materiality

Module: 22-PIE-OOP

Prerequisites

Lecturer

Andrzej W. Nowak

Academic title: prof. UAM

Email: awnowak@amu.edu.pl

Reading list